

MARSHALL COUNTY COMMUNITY FOUNDATION

FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR'S DESK

Since 1991, the visionary leadership of our Founders has built a thriving community foundation that is a leader, innovator, convener, and proud supporter of our people and communities. This annual report marks the 30th anniversary of the founding of the Marshall County Community Foundation. We have much to celebrate.

Traditionally, the gift for a 30th anniversary is the pearl. Natural pearls are among some of the most coveted gems in the world. History teaches that pearls are the ultimate symbol for wisdom. The donors to the Foundation build upon the wisdom of past generations, preparing for the next.

Similarly, the Marshall County Community Foundation assists with hundreds of community needs, supporting nonprofits and students, catalyzing opportunities, building a legacy of philanthropy – layer by layer. The Foundation’s story of impact in Marshall County is continuously being developed – gift by gift, grant by grant.

A pearl is created as layer upon layer of fluid are formed to protect an oyster, mussel, or clam from an irritant. Naturally occurring pearls can take years to fully develop, as layers of coating build up to create a stunning gem. What a beautiful way to describe 30 years of thoughtful philanthropy in Marshall County!

The Foundation is honored to be faithful stewards of your donations. Pearl jewelry is often passed as heirlooms from generation to generation in a family. A necklace or bracelet reminds us of a lost loved one. The Foundation’s ‘heirlooms’ are not made up of pearl earrings or rings, but of gifts that donors wish to ‘keep in the family’ and help support the people and communities of Marshall County long after they pass.

We hope you enjoy the 2021 annual report and celebrate this important milestone year with us. Our commitment to stewardship as your trusted investors and opportunity connectors is as strong today as it was on day one in 1991.

We look forward to another 30 years of consistent growth and increasing reach and impact on the communities we call home.

All the best,

Linda Yoder
Executive Director

TIMELINE of The Marshall County Community Foundation .....

- 1990 - Lilly Endowment launches GIFT (Giving Indiana Funds for Tomorrow) initiative to establish or strengthen community foundations in Indiana.
- 1991 - On February 19, 1991, the Marshall County Community Foundation (MCCF) was established as a 501(c)(3) not-for-profit organization.

CELEBRATING 30 YEARS OF THE MARSHALL COUNTY COMMUNITY FOUNDATION

In 1990, Jan Garrison organized a series of meetings and an evaluation committee of community leaders to discuss the concept of a community foundation for Marshall County. A leadership team formed. A legacy was begun. The Marshall County Community Foundation was formed in 1991. Thirty years later, we laud our beginnings and look to the future.

The Foundation became a catalyst to unite Marshall County.
We salute the courage and vision of the Founding Members and Donors to the Foundation.

A hallmark of the American experience has been our enduring belief that a group of committed citizens can make a difference. The Marshall County Community Foundation embodies the highest ideals of the American people: our collective commitment to serving others and creating a better world for all.

Facts and figures show our tremendous growth. Even more compelling are the stories of individuals and families, of donors and grant recipients, of community leaders and volunteers. We are touched by why and how people give and by how those gifts have impacted the lives of so many through education, arts and culture, health and human service, environmental and community projects.

As we wrap up our 30th year, we feel more connected to Marshall County than ever. We are honored to be your community-minded partners and trusted stewards of your donations and gifts. We are as committed as ever to steadfastly connect exciting opportunities with the visionary thinkers and do-ers of Argos, Bourbon, Bremen, Culver, LaPaz, and Plymouth.

For now. Forever. Helping great ideas take flight. Thank you.

With Warmest Regards,

THE POWER OF SCHOLARSHIPS

When asked about her new role as the Principal for LaVille Elementary, Hope Amor shared, "This is exactly what I want to do, and exactly where I want to be." Amor is coming home to teach and lead in Marshall County after receiving the Lilly Endowment Community Scholarship in 2011 to study at DePauw University.

Hope Jordan Amor is a proud graduate of Bremen High School. After completing her studies at DePauw, she went on to earn a Masters of Arts in Teaching at Marian University and a Masters in Education Administration at Butler University. Along the way, Amor discovered her heart and passion was in elementary education.

All of that education began with the promise of the Lilly Endowment Community Scholarship administered by the Foundation.

"I am forever grateful for the Foundation's scholarship committee. They believed in me as a high school senior. I feel like they still believe in me today. They opened the doors to my education, for me to eventually be able to give back to the community I love."

Being close to family is important to Amor, so when the LaVille Elementary Principal position opened up, she pounced. It was her 'unicorn job' – perfect in all aspects. Both Amor and her husband grew up locally, and returning to Marshall County to continue her career and settle down as a family was important to the couple.

The United Way of Marshall County recently welcomed Amor as a new Board member, a position she is excited to make an impact in. "Teachers have a unique partnership with United Way. We see the struggles of our students and their families first-hand," Amor said. "I'm honored to be able to focus on serving the kids and community I know and love."

KEEPING THE MAXINKUCKEE DREAM ALIVE

In the spring of 2021, a grant from the Ralph C. Vonnegut Jr. Fund was awarded to the Lake Maxinkuckee Environmental Fund (LMEF) to purchase equipment for water sampling and monitoring.

The high-quality equipment means the LMEF can monitor nutrient loading from three main tributaries and additional smaller ones into Lake Maxinkuckee, measuring more frequently and at more sites than previously. If something concerning is found, the results are taken to a lab for further study and possible action.

“Historically, we contracted with businesses to monitor Lake Maxinkuckee and her waters,” said Debbie Palmer, President and CEO of LMEF. “Monitoring more often now means more data and opportunities to protect Lake Maxinkuckee. It also means that we need more volunteers for our work!”

When the LMEF asked for volunteers to help with the water sampling, Ginny Vonnegut Hahn stepped up – a niece of Ralph C. Vonnegut Jr. She commented that she was initially intrigued to volunteer because the money for the grant came from her uncle and his fund at the Foundation.

Hahn first came to Lake Maxinkuckee as an infant in 1962, when her family would spend two weeks vacation there every summer. Now her children are the 5th generation of the Vonnegut family to enjoy Lake Maxinkuckee and its waters.

“Our generation of Vonneguts most definitely feels the same connection to the lake as previous generations did,” said Hahn. She hopes that her children will come for years to come, introducing the next generation of the family to the magic that is Lake Maxinkuckee. She added, “We feel so blessed to be part of a long line of family who have enjoyed this lake and we don’t want to take it for granted.”

Hahn’s cousin, Nonie, recently shared that her father (Ralph C. Vonnegut Jr.) would have been proud to know that his niece was helping preserve the beauty of Lake Maxinkuckee, a place that was so special to him.

Palmer said that the new monitoring equipment is a game-changer for the LMEF. “We got a great response from volunteers to help us with this effort,” she added. “Being out on the water, doing what we love, and introducing even more people to our mission to preserve Lake Maxinkuckee – and how to pass on this beautiful treasure to the future – is the reason why the LMEF is here, after all.”

“That is good that you two are keeping the Maxinkuckee dream alive. That will always be an enchanted body of water to me, my Aegean Sea, perfect in every dimension.”

- Kurt Vonnegut Jr. to his cousin, Catey Rasmussen, 1977

COVID-19 PANDEMIC

The COVID-19 pandemic has been part of our lives for the better part of two years. The pandemic response has been a focus of the Marshall County Community Foundation since March 2020.

When the pandemic first hit, while much of the world shut down, the Foundation and many others in the philanthropic sector got to work. On March 16, the Foundation, together with the United Way of Marshall County, activated the Marshall County COVID-19 Community Response and Recovery Fund. A Rapid Response Grants Committee was formed with representatives from every city, town, and geographic corner, from the Foundation, United Way, and the Marshall County Crossroads team. They continue their work still.

The Fund the Essentials campaign raised a remarkable $524,389.24 to support COVID-19 response work in Marshall County. Economic Relief Initiative grants from Indiana United Ways through Lilly Endowment Inc. funding brought $410,000 to help stabilize the community.

By June 30, 2021, Rapid Response grants were awarded to 35 Trusted Community Partners that provided assistance to households impacted by COVID-19. The Foundation invested hundreds of thousands into Marshall County to help keep local families afloat. In addition to Rapid Response grants, special consideration was given during the Foundation's Community Fund grant rounds to requests actively addressing the local fallout of COVID-19.

Local food pantries received funding to keep shelves stocked.
Mental health groups were given aid to help those struggling with the emotional toll of the pandemic. Schools and nonprofits received grants to purchase personal protective equipment.
Housing and utilities assistance was prioritized to help keep residents safely in their homes amid job loss and uncertainty.

After a grueling year, vaccines provided a glimmer of hope. Working in partnership with the Marshall County Crossroads team, the Marshall County Health Department, and area health systems, the Foundation continues to help share information about vaccine availability, clinics, and updates on booster shots.

But while celebrating amazing progress in fighting COVID-19, victory can not yet be claimed. Friends and neighbors are still getting sick; families are still losing loved ones. Businesses are struggling to find workers and stay open amid supply chain issues. Local nonprofits are again seeing an increased need for their services. Many students are struggling after prolonged periods of remote learning. The list goes on. While attention may have shifted away from "Rapid Response," the Foundation is planning for the future. How will the Marshall County community recover, respond, reimagine, and rebuild?

The fight against COVID-19 is not over. There is plenty of work to do. We know there is hope and opportunity. It is through generous donors and collaborative community leaders that, together, we will make our communities stronger and more resilient.

TEACHING THE NEXT GENERATION OF NURSES IN MARSHALL COUNTY

A grant of $25,000 from the Community Fund is supporting the creation and growth of a new nursing program at Marian University's Ancilla College (MUAC) in Marshall County.

The Foundation grant is helping build the MUAC nursing skills lab, re-creating real-world situations nurses would encounter upon graduation. An infant simulation mannequin teaches students to make clinical decisions in a safe manner, experiencing what checking a child's pulse, heart rate, and other vital signs would be like in the hospital setting.

"Seeing the opportunities available in Marshall County for nursing students, it's very exciting," said Dr. Dorothy Gomez, the Dean of Marian University's Leighton School of Nursing and Associate Professor. With her extensive history of instruction in undergraduate nursing, Dr. Gomez believes the MUAC nursing program will bring that something 'extra' to future nurses.

Nursing students will thrive in the small class sizes and faith-based, family-friendly environment fostered at Marian University's Ancilla College. And, most importantly, they will build solid relationships with their teachers in the tight-knit program, constantly challenged as students to become the best nurses they can be.

The Community Fund grant supported MUAC in getting accreditation for the nursing program. Expanding the program to a four-year degree is an important step towards helping alleviate the national nursing shortage – a shortage that is often more acute for rural communities like Marshall County.

"Nurses are unique in their ability to respond to the health needs of their community. The Foundation is making an early investment in this new nursing program. An investment that will build the strength and the health of Marshall County far into the future."

2003 - MCCC successfully completes Lilly Endowment GIFT V, a $1.8 million initiative.

2007 - The Ralph C. Vonnegut, Jr. Fund established with a Charitable Remainder Unitrust.

2007 - Jennifer S. Maddox hired as new MCCC Executive Director.

GROWING THE MISSION

When you walk into the new Corvilla building in Bremen, artwork and smiles greet you. A large and sunny space invites the visitor in. Corvilla provides life-enhancing services to enrich the lives of individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities while encouraging respect and dignity in the communities in which they live.

“Ultimately, we want our clients to go home with a sense of pride and accomplishment,” said Joe Paris, Director of Day Services for Corvilla. A 2021 Community Fund grant helped Corvilla purchase a washer, dryer, refrigerator, stove, and a commercial kiln to better serve their clients.

The new appliances and kiln will support multiple aspects of Corvilla’s mission. The Bremen Corvilla site offers a comprehensive day program and serves as a hub for Supported Living and Employment Services in Marshall County. An art storefront features unique one-of-a-kind artisan pieces available for sale made by the people Corvilla serves.

When a Corvilla client sells a piece of their art, 50 percent of the sale is paid directly to the artist who made it and the other 50 percent goes into the purchase of more supplies. Each piece is as unique as the individual who made it. With daily scheduled activities, Corvilla creates a positive atmosphere where clients feel safe and engaged. Corvilla encourages client participation and leadership in daily events. Everyone can choose what activities they want to participate in, resulting in a meaningful and productive day.

“The exciting thing is being able to offer programs and opportunities that help our clients develop life skills,” Paris noted. “We are grateful for the welcome we have received from the Marshall County Community Foundation and this grant. I see the results of your investment every day, and let me tell you, it’s incredible.”

“We’re here to make people’s lives better. I love what I do and the clients I get to spend my days with. They’re incredible people. We are lucky to have them as members of our community.”

2008 - Largest MCCF grant awarded to date: $250,000 to help build the Community Resource Center.

2008 - MCCF concludes the Generations Initiative. Twenty-one new funds were created between May 1, 2007, and June 30, 2008.

2009 - Leadership Marshall County launches the Youth Leadership Marshall County program.

PROFESSIONAL ADVISORS: HELPING MAKE EFFECTIVE PHILANTHROPY POSSIBLE

The power of philanthropy lives strong in our Marshall County communities. So does collaboration! Professional advisors and the Foundation can be a win-win partnership in helping clients achieve their charitable goals and crafting “forever gifts” that will live on for generations.

Professional advisors include attorneys, accountants, trust officers, and estate and financial planners. Professional advisors help clients with important financial decisions. The Foundation can simplify their giving and amplify their impact.

“One of the first questions I ask is, ‘Do you have any charitable intent? A nonprofit that has touched you or your family? A cause close to your heart,’” said Adam K. Lukenbill, a member of the Board of Directors for the Foundation, and an area attorney. “The answers are usually a great way to start a conversation about estate planning and my client’s goals.”

The oversight of donations made to the Foundation appeals to many of the donors that Lukenbill advises. An Investment Committee and the Board of Directors steward gifts to the Foundation and strive to ensure donations are as impactful decades into the future as they are today.

“When someone is thinking of their legacy, they want it to last. Whether their name is attached to a new scholarship or maybe a donor-advised fund, my clients are interested in making an impact,” shared Lukenbill. “Frankly, there are few organizations that have the trust, oversight, and perpetuity the Foundation does. My clients want to know their gifts will continue to make an impact in Marshall County long after they are gone, supporting causes that are important to them.”

Fiscal Year 2020-2021

“It’s that spirit of stewardship.
I think that’s what appeals to me the most.
Inspiring philanthropy
is a fantastic part of my job
and one I look forward to each day.”

YOU CAN CREATE AN IMPACT NOW

Contributing from an IRA to a fund at the Marshall County Community Foundation – or creating a new one – is an easy way to reduce your tax burden and make a significant gift to support causes you care about.

For those 70 ½ or older, a gift from your IRA account to the Foundation can benefit your favorite charity. Gifts made from an IRA (up to $100,000 per year) are not reportable as taxable income and qualify toward the required annual minimum distribution. An IRA Qualified Charitable Distribution may be requested for almost any type of fund.

The expertise of your professional advisor combined with the Foundation’s community knowledge, pooled investments, flexibility to support charities, and anonymity (if desired) are a powerful way for you to create an impact.

Check with us or your professional advisor about your giving options, current or deferred, to maximize the benefits of your gift. Donations may be made through stocks, bonds, mutual fund shares, real estate, your will, retirement assets, life insurance policies, or other giving tools. We work with individuals, families, companies, and charitable organizations.

Call us at 574.935.5159. We would love to talk with you and help your ideas take flight.

2012 - The sale of 160 acres of land for $1 million from the estate of Elizabeth (Libby) Marshall benefits the Marshall County Historical Society and provides opportunity for significant increase to their endowment fund and establishment of a nonpermanent fund. Proceeds from the sale of Libby’s home and an additional 6.1 acres of land establish the First United Church of Bourbon Endowment Fund.
